

About this survey

of possible respondents: (Survey open to public)

of submissions: 3

Questions (7 questions)

1. One of the first questions you should ask a patron who needs help finding an image is:

#	%	Answer Option
0/3	0%	Have you looked in ARTstor?
3/3	100%	How do you plan on using the image?
0/3	0%	Are you a student or faculty member?
0/3	0%	Have you tried Google Images?
3/3	100%	# of responses to this question

2. The Libraries have more than one Image LibGuide to meet patron's needs

#	%	Answer Option
3/3	100%	True
0/3	0%	False
3/3	100%	# of responses to this question

3. Licensed Image Databases have better and deeper metadata

#	%	Answer Option
2/3	67%	True
1/3	33%	False
3/3	100%	# of responses to this question

4. A faculty member needs help finding an image for her classroom presentation on classical sculpture. You would most likely have her start searching for images in which of the following resources:

#	%	Answer Option
0/2	0%	Public Domain databases
0/2	0%	Restricted Licensing Images through the creative commons search tool
2/2	100%	Licensed Databases
0/2	0%	Online Image Banks
2/3	67%	# of responses to this question

5. A graduate student approaches you at the reference desk. She is publishing an essay and wants to find out if some images she has obtained are in the public domain. Where can you find resources to help her?

#	%	Answer Option
0/3	0%	I would direct her to UCI's Teaching, Learning and Technology Center (TLTC)
3/3	100%	I would direct her to the Public Domain and Copyrights Resources on the Visual Literacy Guide
0/3	0%	I would direct her to books on topic in ANTPAC
0/3	0%	I would direct her to the Media Resources Center (MRC)
3/3	100%	# of responses to this question

6. What is one thing you did not learn in this session that you would like to know more about?

- have some hands-on, real life reference questions, especially those seemingly simple ones
- Nothing.

<2 responses | 1/3 non-responses>

7. What is one thing you learned in this session that you did not know about?

- how fabulously fuller the images and visual literacy guides have become! definitely go-to sources which in turn lessens anxiety about finding images
- So many, hard to pick one. Images: Find Digital Images Libguide. Very helpful!
- I appreciate the scope of the training. You've provided us with useful tools to share with our users. Nice!